Description
maintenance updates from the update project need to be merged back into the main repo
<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• use osc checkupdate (https://github.com/coolo/factory-auto/osc-plugin-checkupdate.py) to find updated packages</li><li>• copy them back using 'osc copypac -e openSUSE:13.2:Update openSUSE:13.2 -m "Update to match Update channel update#."'; On purpose do it by hand without automation to avoid screwups</li><li>• adjust the release number to be higher than in the update repo using FIXME<sup>1</sup></li><li>• remove updates from the update repo by using "osc killupdate NUMBER"</li></ul>
[1] adjust the release number by checking the state of the package 'osc getbinaries openSUSE:13.2:Update . standard x86_64' and then writing higher revision to .spec file. To submit this update to repository just use 'osc ci --noservice -m "Add revision to ensure new-enough over Update channel."'
There should be a way to do this by means of obs
