Hi, I think the community is large enough now that we should use a mailing list for coordination instead of the current mass mailings, which CC everyone.

History

#1 - 2017-10-13 07:02 - pjessen

- Private changed from Yes to No

#2 - 2017-10-13 07:08 - eeich

Let's see if this should be focussed on science only or on HPC related issues as well - this would include packages from network:cluster and other devel projects as well. I don't vote for separate science and HPC mailing list as this will require frequent cross posts to coordinate things.

This issue got dropped on the floor. It looks like there was some kind of consensus on boo#1063142 to call the list: science@opensuse.org (NOT opensuse-science@opensuse.org) and put in the description "Science & Engineering, Data Science and HPC". I'm happy to act as a (co)-maintainer of this list.

Getting late ... so I made a cut-n-paste error:

Let's make the description "Science, Data Science and HPC" (drop the 'Engineering' as this is partly implied)

#5 - 2017-10-27 06:47 - pjessen

- Due date set to 2017-11-03

- Assignee changed from pjessen to tampakrap

- % Done changed from 0 to 50

Okay, I have created the list 'opensuse-science'. Assigning to Theo for updating the virtual maps.

#6 - 2017-10-27 09:39 - tampakrap

opensuse-science@o.o or science@o.o?
