Description
Motivation
Currently when a test fails only a short one-line "Test died ... in file ..." is shown in a text thumbnail popup within the test details page on the failing test step. It would be convenient if more specific, potentially failure-related content is shown, e.g. the last 30 lines of a test module specific logfile. This saves the user from "find failing test step, scroll to top of page, go to 'Logs & Assets' tab, search for the corresponding logfile, click on the logfile, download it to a local file, optionally extract, open the downloaded log in a local editor, scroll to the end" which can be simplified.
Acceptance criteria
