ntp is installed by default at least for SLES12SP4, Leap15.1 and Tumbleweed

#7 - 2018-10-31 13:37 - dheidler

SLE12SP4 doesn't use chrony.

yes, sorry. With "current products" I meant all based on a more recent codestream, e.g. openSUSE Leap 15 and greater, TW, SLE15 and greater. That excludes SLE12SP4 and SP5 for example.

You might want to think about a `record_soft_failure` here as well though Seems as if it is expected that chrony is not enabled on SLE15SP1 by default.

Maybe disable it completely for sle?
