Description
openSUSE Lizards user blog platform is deprecated, and is going to be closed turned into a read only archive. Planet openSUSE will now become the primary source of the openSUSE news from the community. You can easily create your own blog using GitHub Pages or Gitlab Pages . You can later add your blog to Planet openSUSE using the instructions . We also recommend openSUSE News on Github as a place to submit your openSUSE related articles. For YaST Team news, please see their official website instead If you haven't received an archive of your Lizards blog to your email address, or you have any further questions about this, please send an email to openSUSE Admins
