ping translators ahead of time explaining what is coming up and what will be expected

Hey Max, you took care of the translations last time. Could you take that role again? Ie send the translators some friendly reminder that openSUSE 13.1 is approaching. As usual it would be nice to have the most important languages translated as much as possible (http://i18n.opensuse.org/stats/trunk/toplist.php).
I'm not sure what documents we had them translated last time. IIRC release announcement and social media messages, right? Please also remind them that those will be coming again.

this tasks need a new due date

Talked to Karl on the floor today. He will remind the translators about the upcoming release in general.
Although Karl said he will remind translators about upcoming release, but I still need ping translators again right?

Yes, would be nice if you could send them a plan of the upcoming things that they need to translate besides the usual files in svn.
