Description

Motivation

Filtering by flavor, test name, job group on tests overview page is possible but not configurable in the filter box, could be extended

Acceptance criteria

- AC1: Filtering by flavor, test name, job group on /tests/overview is configurable via UI elements or documented how to do that accessible from that page
- AC2: The filter box on /tests/overview is not getting too big :)

I've not worked in this part of the code yet, should be interesting.

I ran into a performance issue where empty flavor values in the form would sometimes result in all jobs getting listed. So i'll have to add validation #94901 before the filter form can be updated.

Cris and Tina are working on the same code atm., just slightly different areas, so we'll have to coordinate a bit.

#9 - 2021-07-01 18:34 - okurz

ok, good to coordinate with Cris. Tina is working on /tests within #94937 so not the same as the "filter box" within /tests/overview but as the "complex_query" is used in both cases there is a potential overlap. As both issues by you and Tina are not time-critical you can also serialize the work, e.g. first have one issue solved, then continue with the other, to not step on each other's toes or introduce code conflicts needing annoying code conflict resolution.

Opened a PR with flavor and test options. Not sure how to display job groups in the form without it looking messy though. Tried a few things, but nothing worked well enough. https://github.com/os-autoinst/openQA/pull/4005

PR has been merged, so the ticket is partially resolved.

as discussed in weekly the part about "flavor and test name" is good and done. For job group we want to look into a suitable solution together later hence split out
